OFFICE

Floyd A. Johnson

MEMBERS OF THE GRADUATING CLASS OF 1949:

To become educated seems to be the goal most desired by man and has been since the beginning of civilization. We are told by some that education is the development of a character that will make the ideal response to every outside influence or contact. A recent speaker for a service organization said that the essence of education lies in finding out what makes people and things tick, and this requires open, inquisitive minds, minds unafraid to tackle new problems and to explore unknown and uncharted ways of man.

You will find as you grow older that life becomes more and more complex and that education is as gradual as physical growth; but through knowledge we make fewer mistakes and therefore find greater happiness.

In seeking happiness through knowledge or education we need to discover the reality of a divine center or a still small voice at the very core of our being and from this center learn to direct every activity of life. The searching, inquisitive mind will be guided and a character will be developed that will make the ideal response to every outside influence. The final result of your education will be the ability to meet life in all its complex phases and therefore to live abundantly.

I wish you all success.

Sincerely,

Floyd A. Johnson

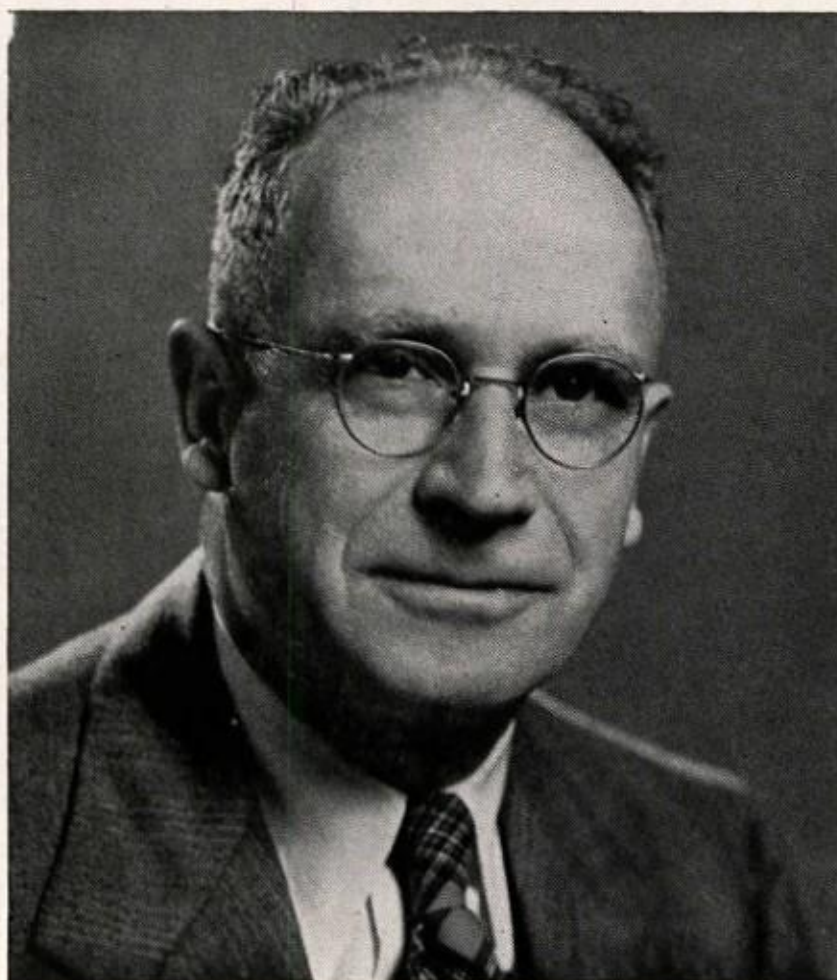

Miss Helen Dillon

During your years in high school you graduating seniors have been building attitudes and convictions. Commencement days seem to bring a new awareness that it is time now, more than ever, to act upon those convictions.

You realize suddenly, as graduates, that no longer can you depend upon someone else to straighten out the world. Instead of a vague, abstract they it will have to be you to take on the task of building a better world.

May I challenge you to find the vision, the courage, and the strength to live according to the finest convictions that you have built throughout your high school years.

Helen F Dillon

Lee R. Slatore

The forty-niners who came to California one hundred years ago would be surprised indeed to see the wonders that have been wrought here, surprised to see Hoover High School with its graduating class of over five hundred students.

The pioneers of that day are noted for their courage, bravery, fortitude, and resourcefulness, but I feel that you have equal virtues and greater opportunities, so I am expecting even more progress from you.

There are still greater frontiers to be explored and expanded. You have the whole world before you. Forty-niners, I salute you.

School Days, School Daze, Dear Old . . .

All your life (well anyway since you were six) you'd dreamed of becoming one of those sophisticated seniors in high school! They were your ideals, they all appeared so wise and knowing. Even the big, thick, grown-up-looking textbooks they carried had an aura of glamour! Someday, you dreamed, you'd be one of them, and you, too, would be wise and all-knowing; you, too, would carry big, thick, grown-up-looking textbooks, go on ditch days, and attend large formal proms! You, too, would be a Senior.

During your years in grammar and junior high school your ideas changed a little. Thick textbooks lost their glamour. But you still dreamed of some of the other advantages, especially ditch day. The closer looks you got when you were a sophomore and a junior only made Senior Life seem more exciting.

Then school opened this fall, and suddenly you realized that you were a senior—oh, happy day! The first school days this September, like those of every September, were hot, but you were determined to wear your senior sweater no matter what the temperature. The admiring glances of sophomores made even your red face and your perspiring back worth while.

But school is in session only when there is something going on to keep the students out of it. Two weeks after the opening of the school term came the big six-school-wide Football Carnival, and you, like almost everyone else, were out of some of your classes to help prepare an exciting show. (You didn't mind this, though, 'cause after all it was school service, wasn't it?) The Carnival was exciting; the pageantry was beautiful, and the fighting (in the stands) was downright thrilling! With the opening of the Carnival the Hoover High School football season had officially begun.

A football game at Hoover was a project through which the school made lots of money, the players made lots of letters, the rooters made lots of noise, the opposing team made lots of points, and you made lots of confetti out of the football roster. But the football games were exciting, and it usually took you the whole weekend to regain your voice.

In the early fall, senior class officers were elected, senior cabinet members chosen, and work was begun for the biggest and naturally the most important senior year at Hoover! The first senior committee to start slaving away was the Annual Staff (plug) who began taking your pictures and deciding what was to be included in "Dias Cardinales" 1949.

It seemed that the school year had only begun when suddenly report card day was upon you. Oh, Black Friday in November! But quarter grades, you rejoiced, were not recorded on your diplomas. Swell!

This winter was a big year in the annals of time. In addition to being your senior year, it was the year of The Big Snow, The Big Rain, and The Big Freeze. Mountain parties and snow fights were held right on campus. "Levi's" and heavy shirts became your standard gym uniform, and ice hockey was played on the lower field.

Windy winter weather blew in the basketball season with a flourish. And you (plus a few hundred other Cardinals) turned out to cheer your teams and heckle their opponents. Points and penalties later, it was all history to be recorded in the sports section.

"Stocking Stomp," Senior Cabinet-planned to help pare down expenses, was the first senior activity of the year and a huge success. Two hundred "cats" and "kittens" jammed the boys' gym to dance, eat, enjoy the floor show, and get their pictures on the front page of the Sunday Union Society Section. You sacrificed your favorite pair of argyles, but you certainly left a high sheen on the hardwood floor!

The second quarter brought several additions to your activity lineup. The long-awaited senior room was opened and cards issued to those whose grades (there's that word again) had withstood the acid (ink eradicator, you know) test. Bungalow C, all painted and prettied-up for the occasion, was stocked with cokes and ice cream, and there you could indulge in ping pong or other less athletic indoor sports.

In the spring a young man's fancy lightly turns—but not so the weatherman's. His thoughts were of the same old rain. The Annual Staff could tell you about this because, coincidentally, club and organization pictures were being taken at this time. Swell!

The signs of spring are pretty standard the world over, but at Hoover this year there were a few changes. Instead of flowers popping out of the soil, heads were popping out of room 104 to collect leafy green from you for your announcements, dues, and play tickets. Ah spring! Aw nuts! Room 104 had its more pleasant moments, too. Your joke-filled edition of the "Cardinal," announcements, and "Dias Cardinales" were dispensed from it.

The senior play, "A Date With Judy," provided one of the more flowery events of spring. Certainly a great deal of talent was in bloom. Telling yourself it was a good way to make use of your extra tickets, you and your "steady" went to see it. Other seniors hadn't had trouble disposing of their tickets, you discovered as you hunted for a seat. Everyone was there!

The "Theatuh" cast its spell upon you, and the make-up, costumes, properties, stage set, characterization, and dialogue all pleased your usually finicky taste. You were glad you had come.

Spring sports—wrestling, track, and baseball—added to the kaleidoscopic whirl of things you were doing. Despite competition from other activities and from each other, these contests drew record crowds. You followed the crowds, ate popcorn, cheered, had fun.

Sandwiched between the afore-mentioned pastimes was a little studying, too. Very little.

Then, lo, came that long-awaited holiday in Pine Valley—senior ditch day (official). Clad in your "Levi's" and sport shirt, you boarded your bus, all ready to enjoy whatever pursuits the mountains had to offer. Strangely enough the pastime you enjoyed the most was that of attempting to rid the food tables of their load. That evening you returned, feeling a little tired, a little sunburned and stiff, but happy.

Next you faced a difficult decision. Would it be the Mission Beach Ballroom or the El Cortez Hotel? Did you like to dance better than you liked to eat? Were you going to attend the prom or the dinner? This was a real problem! In entertainment the two were equal. You could not go to both. Which did you attend?

Your last two weeks of school were crowded with Annual-signing, final finals, and, inevitably, grades. Although you were looking forward to summer, you were sorry that your senior year in high school was almost over.

Vesper services were held in the First Presbyterian Church downtown. Many of your relatives and friends came to hear and to see. The beautiful services impressed you more deeply than you cared to admit, but your mood was reflected in your face and manner.

Tower day exercises left you with mixed emotions. You felt proud of your fellow graduates as they received their well-deserved scholarships and awards, but you felt sad, too, when you thought of relinquishing the reins of student government to your successors. All that would remain of your senior year was your signature in the big book in the tower, and the thought brought a lump to your throat that you couldn't quite swallow.

Commencement exercises were held in the Greek Amphitheatre at State College, this year. A small bonfire in the south section of the Hoover stadium had necessitated this. You filed in to the dignified strains of "Pomp and Circumstance," clad in your red or white cap and gown. It was a solemn moment. You were closing a door on your high school years, and opening another to college and work. You received your diploma and you were graduated.

One of Hoover's busiest organizations is the California Scholarship Federation, whose activities this year have included monthly meetings, a party in the fall, an annual conference at Pomona sponsored by Huntington Park High School, decorating and checking for school dances, providing Christmas boxes for a needy family, a ditch day, a dinner for all San Diego high school C. S. F. chapters in the spring, and awarding two college scholarships.

Guided by Miss Ferne Bassett, this group encourages and rewards high scholarship standards and service to the school. Membership is earned by points. Of the ten required, three points are given for an "A" and one for a "B." Two for service to the school may be used toward the total.

A life membership is awarded after four semesters in the C. S. F., one semester of which must be in the senior year. All life members receive gold membership pins and have a gold seal placed on their diplomas.

The Ecivres, with a membership of twenty, is the Senior Service Society of Herbert Hoover High School. The purpose of this organization is to reward by election to membership ten senior boys and ten senior girls who have worked unselfishly as lower classmen for the best interests of Hoover. They are selected, also, because of their outstanding records in good citizenship and as leaders. The Ecivres is the only organization whose members are chosen by the faculty.

During their Senior year, members continued to serve individually as school officers, or as a group in planning and promoting school activities, or participating in special programs. The wearing of the black and gold service pin of the Ecivres is considered to be one of the highest honors of the school.

Two memorable social affairs of the year were the installation dinner, which took place in February, and the reunion with all past members in May.

The motto of the Society is "Act well your part; there all the honor lies."

This year the National Thespian Society observed its twentieth anniversary; the Hoover troupe celebrated this occasion by giving a special assembly program in the spring and presenting a one act play, "The Lord's Prayer," at the Footlights Theater Drama Festival.

The calendar also included participation in the State College Speech Contest in February, the Redlands Speech Contest in April, and the annual Thespian play, the three act mystery, "Tiger House."

Junior Statesmen

Each week, under the leadership of its sponsors, Mrs. Lee Pingree, Miss Ruth Schiferle, and Miss Bonney Carlson, the Junior Statesmen of America, a state-wide organization, discussed international and national affairs of current interest.

This year the Cardinal Statesmen sponsored the Hoover March of Dimes drive, collecting $1,100 and, assisted by three other Southern State chapters, played host to five hundred fellow Statesmen from all over California at the state convention held here.

A sigh of relief was heard from the "Cardinal" Staff, and Mr. Allen, the sponsor, each Friday when its busy, action-packed week was finished. Putting out over twelve hundred copies weekly, it covered the latest classroom, sports, and club news, as well as other school activities. This year, however, the staff added a question of the week, letters to the editor, and several other articles to make the paper better than ever.

In bringing Hoover students the "Sports Jamboree," members of the "Cardinal" Staff made every effort to make it the most outstanding event ever staged at Hoover.

Ducateers

The Ducateers, Hoover's busy ticket sellers, were responsible for promoting the sale of tickets for all plays, dances, and sports events staged at Hoover. In cooperation with its sponsors, Miss Martha Miller and Mr. Laban Hilton, this club encouraged the school spirit necessary for the success of social activities. To qualify for membership, good grades and leadership ability are required.

Each morning as the voices of experienced singers filled the air, students near the Little Theater recognized the A Cappella Choir preparing one of its fine selections of sacred music, spirituals, folk songs, and other vocal arrangements.

While practicing, choir members gave special attention to pitch, shading, intonation, and tone quality.

Not only the school, but also the community benefited by the excellent concerts given by this versatile group.

Persons desiring membership in this well-known organization must be selected after individual tryouts by Mrs. Madeleine Hofmann, the sponsor of the club.

Hoover was justly proud of its outstanding forty-eight piece concert Orchestra under the direction of Mr. Walter Peterson. One of the finest in San Diego, it competed in the Coronado Music Festival, March 11 and 12, and appeared in the All-City Mother's Day Program at Ford Bowl. These talented musicians, who also possess a deep interest in fine music and an appreciation of it, not only provided the delightful medleys and spiritual music for our Christmas program, but also took part in commencement exercises. In addition, an assembly was presented this spring by the Orchestra, string ensemble, and soloists.

Girls' Octette

Norem, Foster, Johnson,

row: Taylor, Whelan,
Schnug, Ferrell.

The eight talented songsters who made up the Girls' Octette were in many ways the busiest group at Hoover. With the aid of their sponsor, Mrs. Madeleine Hofmann, and their accompanist, Elizabeth Taylor, the girls did a great deal of outside work. They averaged two programs a week, performing for churches, schools, and other organizations. This year the girls derived special enjoyment from competing in the Annual Redlands University Music Festival.

Cardinal "4"

The eight young men with voices of sterling quality who composed the Cardinal "4" represented some of the best musical talent at Hoover. In addition to their appearance in assemblies this year, this active group was very popular at various local clubs, churches, and civic organizations, averaging two appearances a week throughout the year. Their director, Mr. Peterson, chose each member on the basis of his vocal ability and interest in music. The important job of accompanist was held by Carol Kaufman, and George Stamatopoulos was the student director.

Senior Girls' Glee Club, sponsored by Mrs. Madeleine Hofmann, gave its members the opportunity of learning the fundamentals of part singing. The more talented girls were eligible to join the A Cappella Choir.

Several times during the year this club entertained Hoover students in musical assemblies which helped further the student body's interest in fine music.

The girls had the privilege of giving a choral program on Tower Day. Excellent proof that they took advantage of this opportunity was heard from the comments of the Seniors who will long remember their inspiring performance.

The Glee Club entertained with selections chosen from the best choral music available for men's voices which included folk songs, sacred music, spirituals, and many other types of vocal works. The group provided outstanding entertainment for school and community programs.

Because of the excellent training received, members are able to build up an interesting and beneficial musical background that can be used later in life if they desire to develop their talent.

Fourth row: Thompson, Alcorn, Culver, Gendelman, Hoffert, Peterson, Jarman, Hertsch, O'Connell, Wright, Gipson.

With the roll of drums and the sound of trumpets, Hoover's colorfully uniformed Band came into view, preceded by the satin-clad figures of the peppy Band Majorettes, led by Captain Claire Tinker. Gracefully strutting, twirling silver batons, their sequined costumes sparkling, the Majorettes provided entertainment to delight the eyes, while the stirring martial music played by the Band delighted the ears. The excellent music and precision marching routines made the Band's appearance an eagerly awaited entertainment.

These energetic Cardinal music makers, directed by Mr. Walter Peterson, were always present at all home games and at rallies, where they boosted spirits with school songs and set feet tapping with jazz and popular music. In addition, the entire group traveled to Long Beach, helping to put on a show during half-time of the football game played there.

Not content with this full schedule, the Band, which also played concert-type music, entered the Coronado Music Festival on March 11 and 12, receiving a rating of "superior." An evening concert open to the public was held on May 26, when the Band first appeared in the new uniforms which the Hoover Band Parents raised money to purchase.

Song and Cheer Leaders

Adding color, zest and rhythm to all the rallies and games, the popular song and cheer leaders have been a challenge and a stimulant to school spirit. Elected after tryouts before Hoover's student body, the vivacious, pompon twirling song leaders and energetic prancing cheer leaders were co-sponsored by Charles Hampton and Kenny Hale this year. Among the hardest working groups at Hoover, they took part credit for our teams' successes and achievements.

Hoover's Drill Team, under the sponsorship of Miss Helen Barr and the student leadership of Captain Mary Epler, added another successful year to its fine record.

Recognized by their trim red and white uniforms, the girls were seen performing intricate drills with expert precision. This perfection, however, was gained only through long hours of practice.

The group entertained at games and rallies, in parades, and for school programs.

In recognition of their faithfulness and perseverance, beginning this year the girls who were in the Drum Corps two and a half years without missing a parade or game received a pin. Another new idea was the summer semester course that taught the newcomers the twenty-five intricate cadences and smooth routines.

The versatile "slick chicks with the drum sticks" were introduced in football half-time entertainments, parades, and auditorium drills by clashing cymbals and the flashing batons of the majorettes. The organization was sponsored by Miss Barr, physical education teacher.

Gracing our football field in a symphony of rhythm and color were the petite, sequin covered figures of Gerry Tremble and the youthful mascot, Pam Cooper. Gerry, able successfully to twirl two batons, filled her newly devised office and performed to the perfect satisfaction of all onlookers. A "well done" goes out from the Hoover High Student body! Miss Helen Barr was their sponsor.

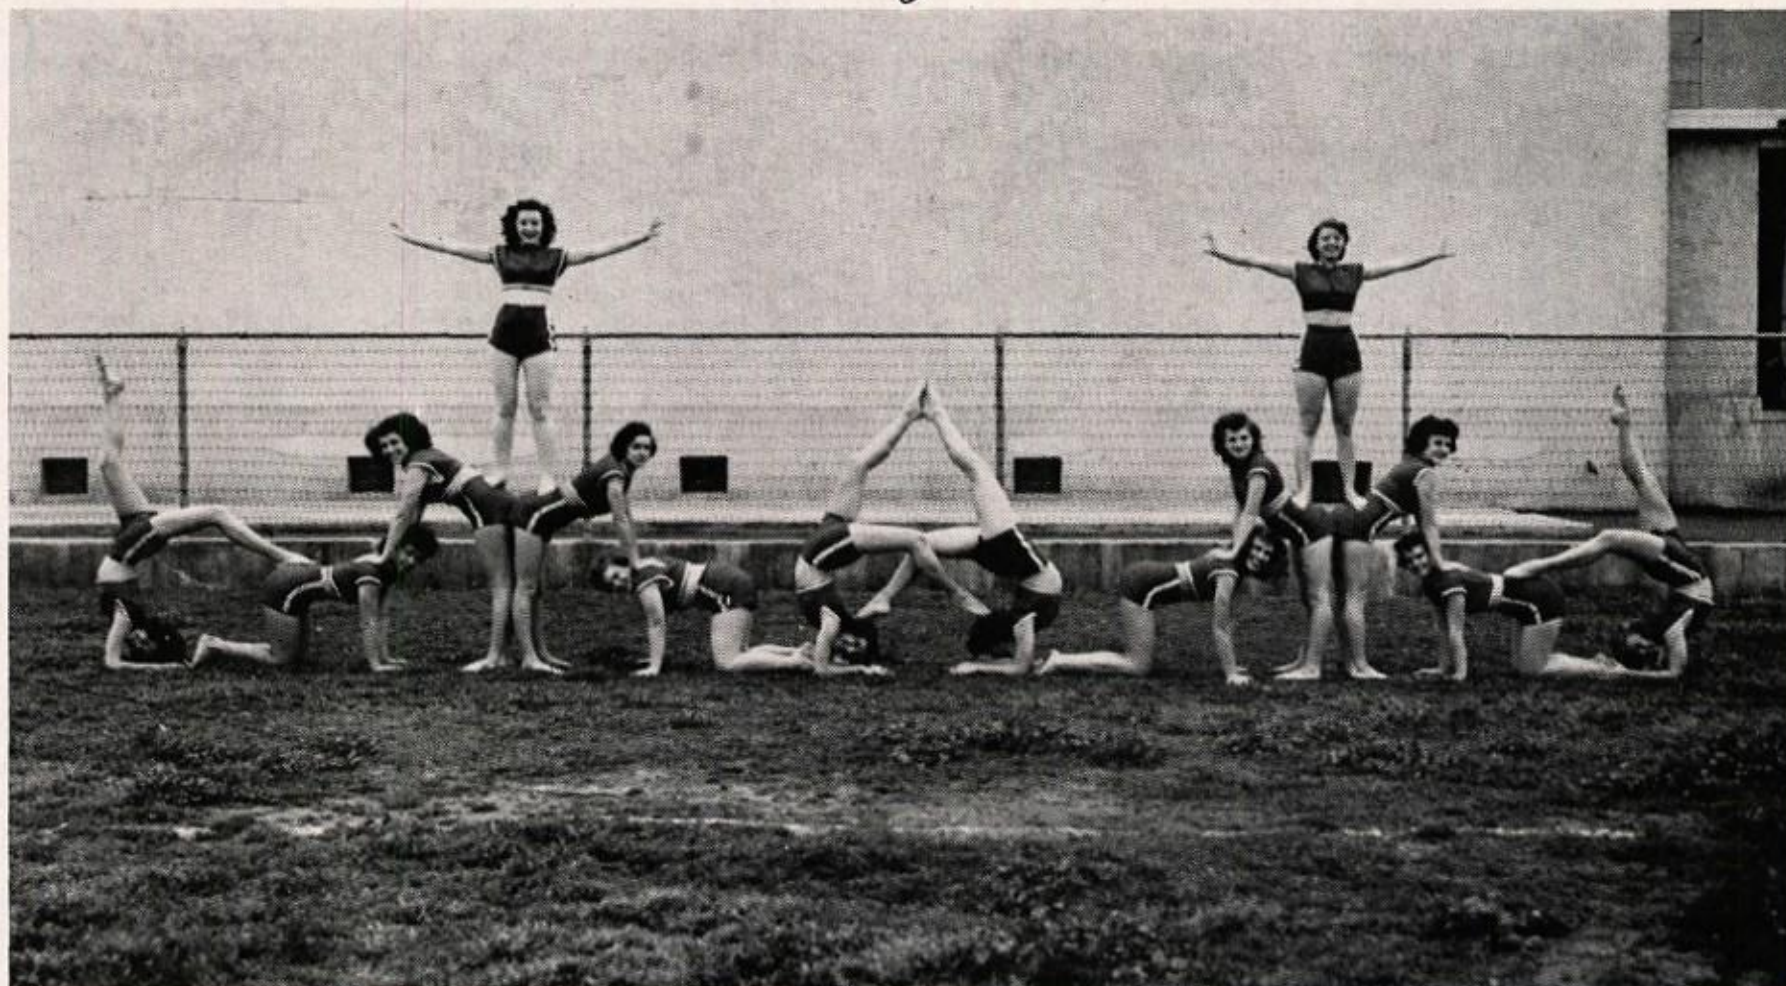

Flag Twirlers

Newly organized this year, the Flag Twirlers under the leadership of petite Sharon Muse, made quite a hit during football half-time entertainment periods. Their tricky routines, which the girls originated themselves, were performed to the rhythms of the Drum Corps. Miss Barr was their sponsor.

The Hoover High Tumbling Team is an organization of which the Hoover students are proud. These agile girls proved their ability many times at assemblies, rallies, football games, and various other programs.

The goals set forth by the group's sponsor, Miss Geneva Upp, are good citizenship and outstanding tumbling ability. Cooperation was the watchword of the group, for the girls realized that it was a major factor in the successful performance of their routines.

The Girls' Rifle Team was all that was left of the Girls' R.O.T.C. which formerly had been an active battalion at Hoover. This group sparked the Hoover Clean-up Campaign in the fall, improving the appearance of the grounds immensely. Although many of the members were themselves active in various other organizations around school and in sports, they also found time to help put on rallies and sponsor dances. The threefold purpose of the Cardinal Hi-Y, sponsored by Mr. Justmen Lundquist, is to "create, maintain, and extend high standards of Christian character."

Meeting at the Y.M.C.A. each Tuesday, these sophomore boys engaged in activities varying from sports and social events to service work done for the school. The club also attended conferences and discussed recent topics of interest.

Four "C's"

Promoting sportsmanship and interest in the wide outdoors, the "Cast 'em, Catch 'em, Clean 'em, and Cook 'em" Club gave many opportunities to the lovers of angling. Camping trips, such as jaunts to various lakes, deep sea expeditions, and a casting contest were the special activities of the group this year. A real interest in fishing, according to Mr. Johnson, their sponsor, is the only qualification for membership.

The Attendance Monitors were those busy little bees who helped Miss Margaret McVey and Miss Velma Fleming, Attendance Secretaries. Their many duties included answering the attendance office telephone and taking messages, contacting students, filing programs, excuse slips, and other records, and making out admit cards. The monitors, who give up their study hall periods to help, must have good citizenship and scholarship grades. They earned a service point for each semester's work.

The Registrar's Monitors gained practice in office procedure, and, according to the Registrar, Mrs. Dent, were a great help in filing the innumerable records involved. Skill in typing and good scholarship and citizenship grades are all that are required.

Giving up their study halls to perform this work, they delivered messages to students from the counselors, filed materials, and acted as receptionists in Room 102. The counselors were their sponsors.

Switchboard Operators and Nurses' Helpers

While serving the school, the Nurses' Helpers gained invaluable training by assisting our nurses, Miss Henderson and Mrs. Stafford. The girls must be neat, quiet, and able to follow orders quickly.

The student Switchboard Operators learned efficiently to take and make telephone calls at the switchboard in the main office. According to Miss Hartson, their sponsor, the only requirements are good attendance and better than average scholarship. Their aim was service to the school.

Hoover's Ciel Doré Horizon Club was a group of energetic, active Cardinal Co-eds sponsored by the San Diego Junior Woman's Club. Its three-point program encouraged service, social activities, and personality improvement.

The members of the group spread Yuletide cheer by caroling and by making up a gift box that provided a needy family with a Christmas dinner. In addition to acting as hostesses at dances given by the Red Cross for servicemen at the Marine Base, they collected a large sum of money during the March of Dimes campaign.

Their social calendar included a city-wide Horizon Blue and Silver Ball in November, a dinner and impressive installation of officers in February, and a week-end trip to the mountains. Several members also attended a Horizon Club Conference in Los Angeles on March 5. Honoring their parents with a dad and daughter banquet and a mother and daughter tea completed their year's round of activities. Each of their interesting bi-monthly meetings was topped off by delicious refreshments provided by the girls. Everyone agrees, however, that nothing could have been accomplished without the aid of their adviser, Mrs. Adler, and their sponsors, Mr. Paes, Mrs. Bell, and Mrs. Taylor.

They also had speakers who provided interesting topics for discussion.

The Christmas party and other parties enjoyed by this group were the product of hard work put forth by all the girls.

The aim of the Drama Club is to further interest in dramatics at Hoover and to encourage dramatic talent by giving its members an opportunity to participate in plays and assemblies.

According to the group's enthusiastic sponsor, Mr. Richard Woolley, membership is determined by a system of points earned by participating in two plays, skits, or assemblies, and by giving a monologue. Although it was not originally intended for this purpose, many members have discovered that belonging to the group is a stepping stone toward membership in the Thespian Society.

In addition to regular meetings, this energetic "stage-struck" group had theatre parties and other types of social activities considered hits by the members. Drama Club meetings also featured entertaining speakers.

Public Address System

Members of the Public Address System proved themselves invaluable, for they were present at all games, rallies, and assemblies where they operated the loudspeakers and microphones, and at all dances where they provided the recorded music.

The members received instruction in microphone technique, amplifier operation, and electrical maintenance from their adviser, Mr. Byron Taylor. After serving a one-year apprenticeship, sophomores are eligible for selection as operators. Special Hoover "H" letters were awarded them after one year's satisfactory work.

Stage Crew

Though little seen, the Hoover Stage Crew will be long remembered for their never-ending work behind the scenes. The enormous responsibility of staging a theatrical production did not worry these "muscle men," or their supervisor, Mr. R. B. Woolley. Besides their daily task of keeping the stage clean, they built stage sets, rang up curtains, moved scenery, and operated the lights.

They were rewarded at the end of the year's hard work by a dinner. Gordon Kinney was fall stage manager and Richard Griffin held the same position in the spring.

The Downbeat Club, sponsored by Mr. Frank Close, was organized to rally those hard-working promoters of pep, the Song and Cheer Leaders, Band, all Majorettes, and Flag Twirlers.

Students holding these positions were all prominent in both school and extra-curricular activities. Ray Precourt and Larry Swikard were members of "Benny Banana's Bunch," who entertained at rallies, and Ray also had a band of his own. Dorothy Jordan and Bobbie Merrill are talented dancers. George Stamatopoulos sang bass in the Cardinal "4," and Sharon Muse held the lead in the Senior Play.

Student body and class officers represented in this group included Gerry Tremble, Kay Gillette, Helcia Graf, and Mary Drewett, who was also chosen for the Ecivres.

The Pan American League was composed of enthusiastic students who were interested in having a better understanding of our Latin-American neighbors. In order to become better acquainted with their music, art, customs, and traditions, the group made numerous excursions to Mexican restaurants and theatres throughout the year, accompanied by their sponsor, Mrs. Isaura Geiger. In addition to social activities such as fiestas, pinatas, and picnics, each year the Pan American League presents a $50.00 scholarship to a senior who majored in foreign languages.

The Tuesday meetings of the Bible Club, an energetic organization sponsored by Miss Kokanour, included singing and talks by guest speakers who elaborated on the club's theme "Living for Jesus." The group was open to all who desired to know, understand, appreciate, and apply Christ's teachings and become more familiar with the Bible.

Chi Eta Mu

The aspiring chemists who formed the club, Chi Eta Mu, worked together to increase their knowledge in this field of science.

This group, sponsored by Mrs. Lois Hines, not only followed its interest by seeing movies, listening to lectures, and observing experiments, but also by going on field trips to Palomar and other places in San Diego County.

The officers and enlisted men of the R.O.T.C. gained the foundation for intelligent citizenship from the time spent marching, drilling, and practicing rifle marksmanship. Participation in parades, guard duty at football games, and execution of flag raising ceremonies all helped teach them orderliness, courtesy, correct posture, deportment, and leadership.

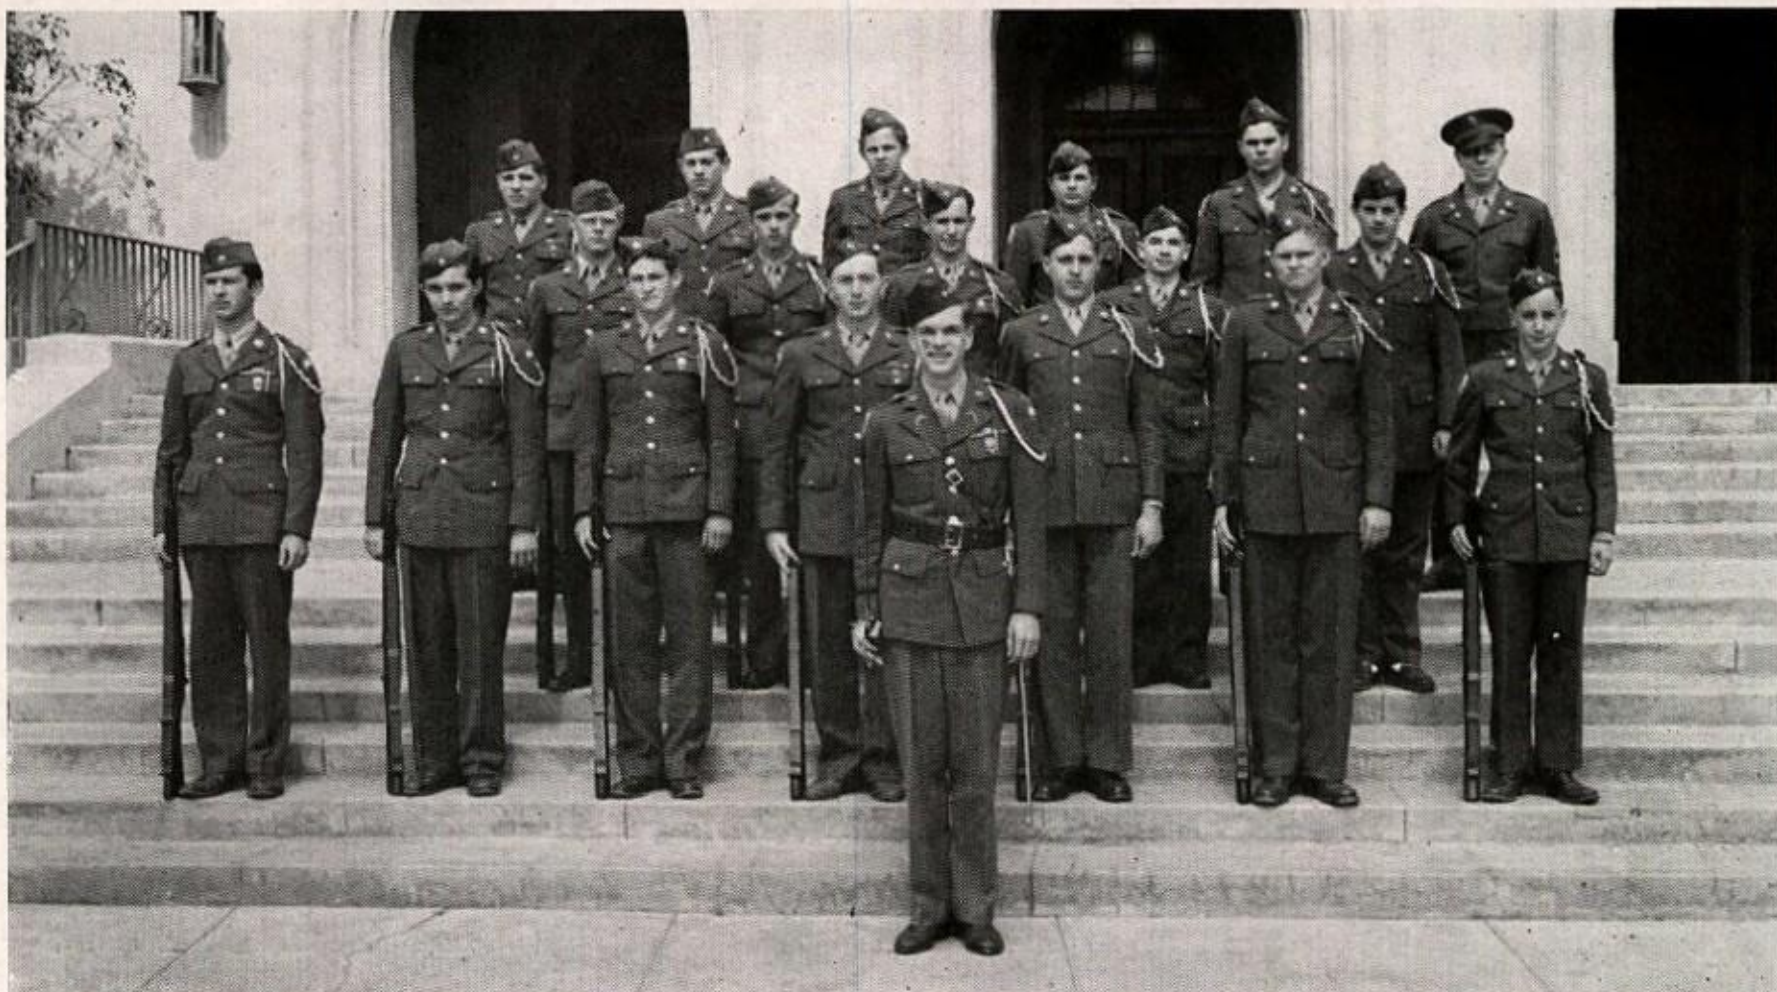

Membership in R.O.T.C. may be considered either a selective science or a physical education course. Under the supervision of M/Sgt. John L. Neff and M/Sgt. Richard L. Bernius, they successfully completed battle maneuvers and an inspection competition in the spring. Heeding the proverb, "All work and no play makes Jack a dull boy," the R.O.T.C. gave two gala city-wide balls this year.

Varsity Football

Seldom does a football team lose every game on its schedule and still have its season lauded as one of the most successful in the school's history, but the '48 edition of Hoover's Cardinals is an exception. Football is now on an even keel at Hoover with many experienced gridsman returning next year, and some talent even slated to return for two more years. Interest on the grid is again high and seasons to come should establish this past season as that of the "great awakening."

When Coach Bob Kirchhoff first took over the reins of the varsity gridders, this past season, he realized the task he was undertaking. Most of last year's squad had graduated. Those returning found themselves working under a new mentor with views on pigskin maneuvers different from those of their previous helmsman. Many other members of Coach Kirchhoff's crew were veterans of sophomore or jayvee pigskin warfare, but lacked the experience, size, or both for first-class varsity gridders.

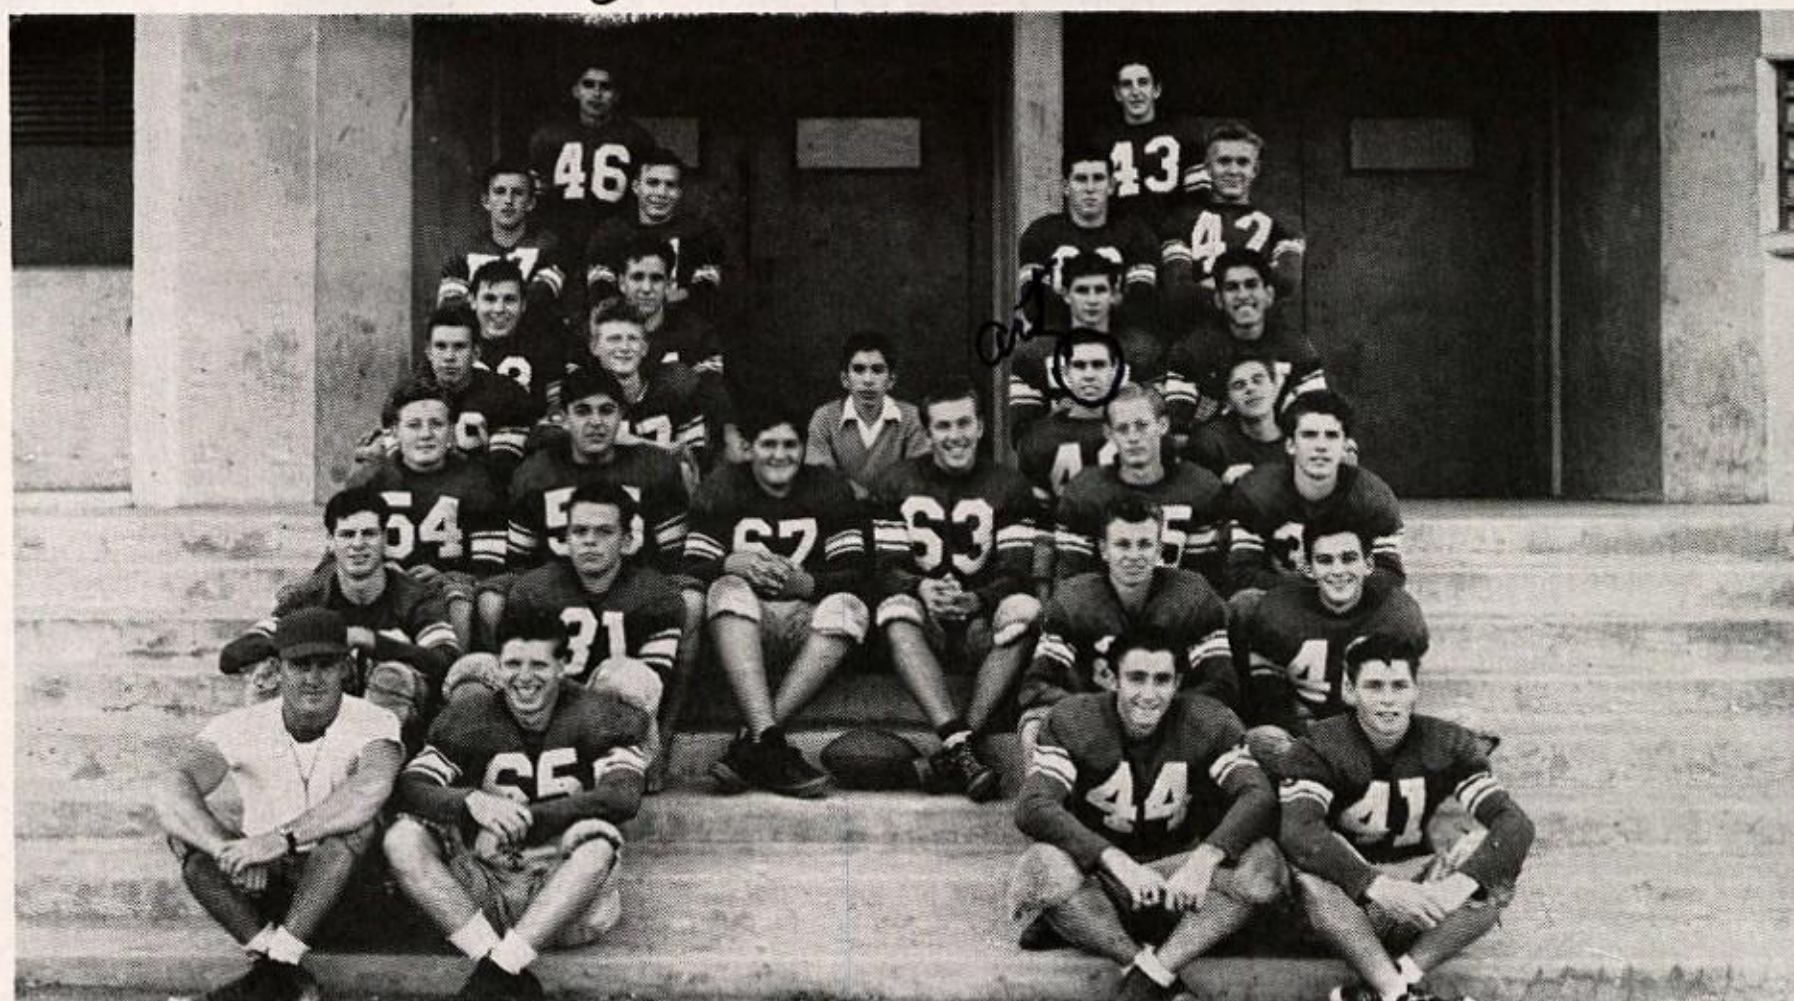

Not until the Redbirds' first taste of action in the East-West Football Carnival did Mentor Kirchhoff learn that some of the mainstays in pre-season workouts lacked the winning punch under pressure. Crosstown rival, San Diego High, mauled the Hockervillers 21-0 during the 20 minutes of playing time allotted in the Carnival.

Hoover's defense improved in the first regular game, but the offensive failed to tally as San Bernardino trampled the Cards, 25-0. Two weeks later, the red and white clads tasted their first Coast League action. John Muir recorded a 13 to 6 victory over the Birds with a fumble play providing the Muirites with the deciding margin. A strong Long Beach Poly eleven was next to romp over the Kirchhoffmen. After fighting to a scoreless initial quarter standstill, the jackrabbits goose-egged the punchless Cards, 38-0.

Losses were becoming a habit by the time Pasadena had squeezed past Hoover, 19 to 12, but whip wielder Kirchhoff's hog hiders were gaining respect from league foes as a spirited bunch of ball players after they met with potent Compton. The second place Coast Leaguers played a hard game of heads-up ball to subdue the Hooverites 26 to 12.

One of Southern California's top elevens, Long Beach Wilson, whitewashed the Cardinals 56-0 the week before San Diego's Cavemen were to host the Cards. In the traditional Cave-Card clash, the Redbirds powered over one six pointer and the dividend, but San Diego's 39 digits, most of which were tallied in the opening half, were more than enough to trample the Hockervillers. Grossmont's 26 to 13 pasting of the Red and Whites Thanksgiving afternoon finished the season.

J. V. Football

A pair of stalwart linemen who bulwarked the Card forward fence all season, Bob Rinehart and Jack Roznos, received most of the post-season honors. Roznos, playing his third and final year at a guard slot, was named to first string of an All-County, All-Star aggregation picked by the Prep Sports Editors' Association. Rinehart was placed on first string of the Coast League All-Star eleven picked by the Breitbard Athletic Foundation. Roznos was also named best Card blocker and tackler as well as captain, and Rinehart received the most improved player award.

Operating from the wings on the Kirchhoff-coached crew were Ronnie Dahlin, Jack Day, Emil Jouglet, seniors, and George Boop, promising sophomore. Tacklers were often guards or guards often backs during the year as Coach Kirchhoff continually juggled the line-up in search of the strongest possible combination. Frank Dibb, Stan Kuerbis, Roy Woods, Roznos, and Rinehart, seniors, and Jack Harrison, Chuck Kahan, Chuck Abbot, Jim Brown, Tom Sayer, and Phil Rutkowski, juniors, saw most of the action at the two positions. Ed Johns moved up from J. V. to take the first string pivot slot chores on his shoulders.

Bill Bridgford and Dave Gray, fullbacks, and Wayne McWilliams, half, were the only seniors in the backfield. Don Bonatus, rifle-armed passer as well as a fine blocking back; Don Day, powerful line bucker, and Jerry Huston, big first string signal caller, saw much action though sophomores. These promising sophs and a group of juniors turned in large backfield stints. Ronnie Crotts, a crazy-footed scatback; Jim Tetley, an accurate passer; Dick Woods, a speed demon; Del Teter, powerful punter, and Bud Olson, another talented reserve, should all go to make next year's offensive nothing short of dynamite.

With 14 of the total 25 lettermen returning next year, Coach Kirchhoff expects to field an eleven which will make the Cardinals a tough team to conquer for league and non-league foes alike.

"B" Football

Something new was added in the way of football teams at Hoover this past year—a Class B grid contingent. Coach Bob White cracked the whip, and the season saw the rugged lightweights finish with a four won, four lost, and one tied record.

In the opener, the Bee footballers invited a big Grossmont sophomore team to Hoover turf and proved the theory that the bigger they come, the harder they fall. Striking home three times on aerials and once via ground, the Redbird Bees tacked up a 25 to 8 verdict.

A San Diego sophomore eleven was next to face the Cards. Neither team gained anything except a few bruises, and the pig fest ended in a scoreless tie.

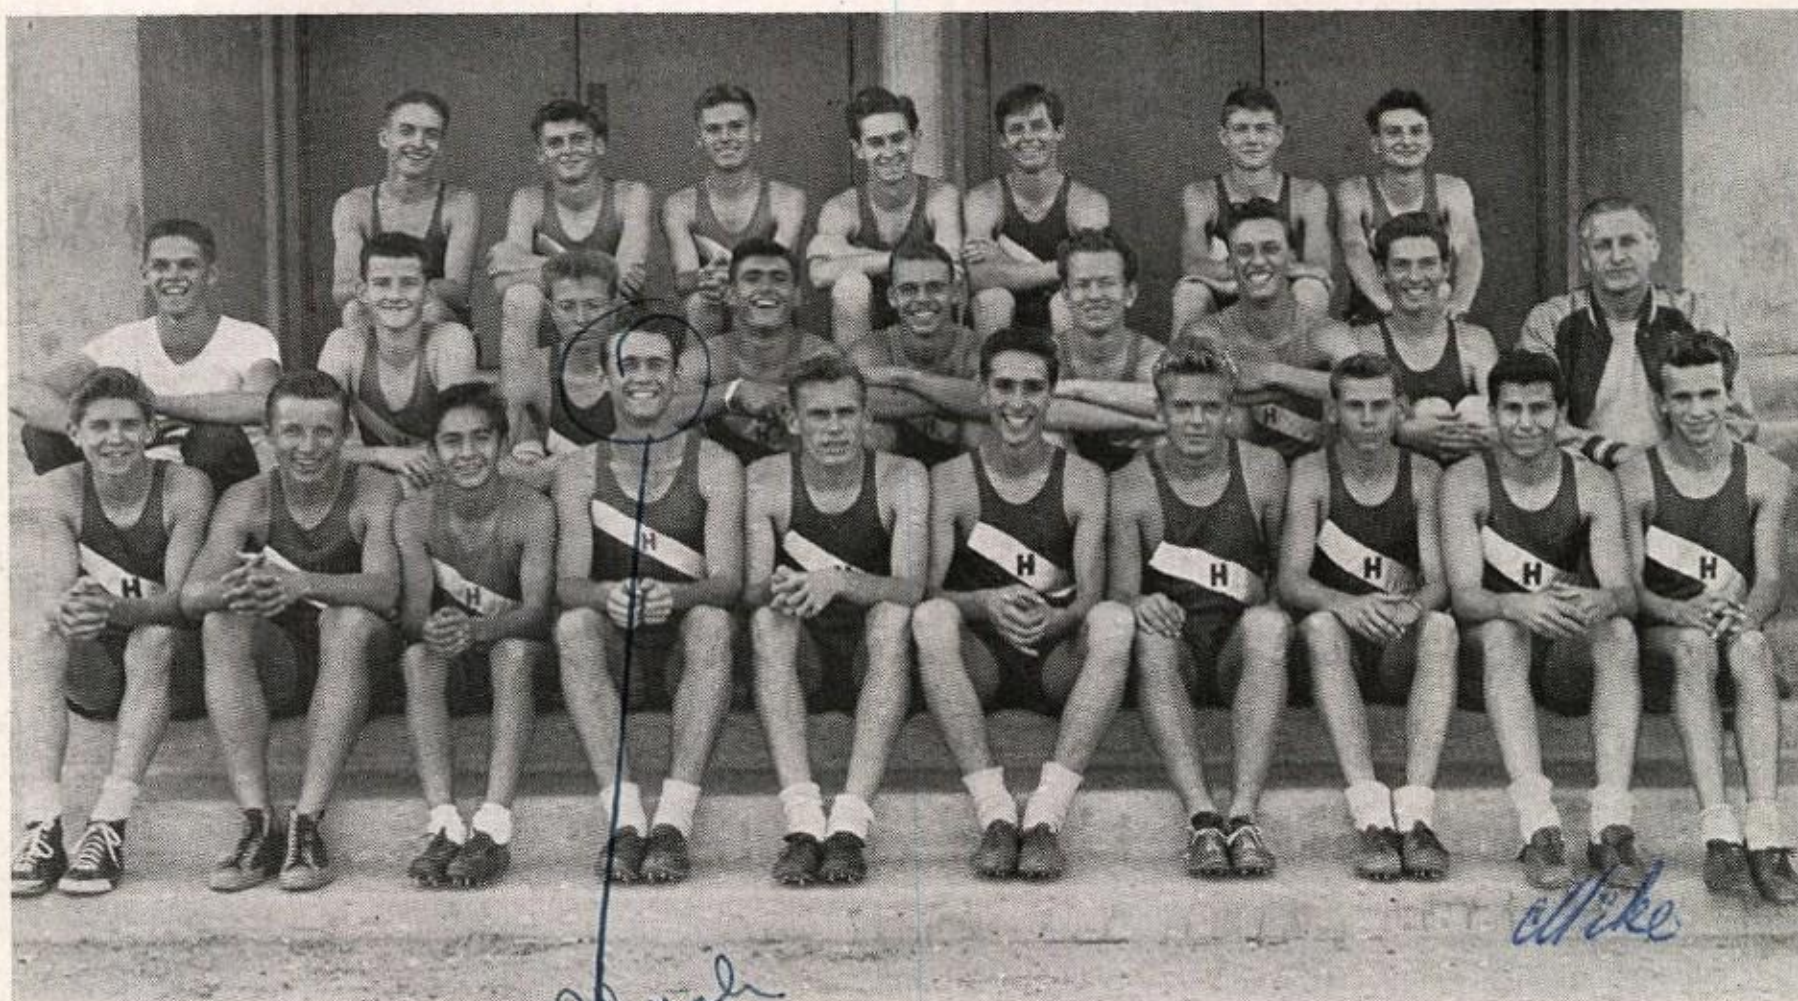

Muir's Bees knocked the Hoover lightweights out of the undefeated column a week later, 19 to 7. The next game found the Hockervillers again in the giant-killer role. Escondido's Jayvee fell before the Bees, 7 to 0.

For the next two contests Hoover played second fiddle to their opponents. Pasadena recorded a 38 to 0 triumph over the Cardinals the week before Compton registered a 28 to 0 win. Ray Henson, Don Hartley, and Norman Rubey, main cogs in the Hoover backfield, missed both games because of injuries.

In a re-match with Grossmont J. V., a 19-13 victory was racked up by the Red and Whites. To close the year, Coronado's Bees said "uncle" to the Whitemen, 19 to 7.

Elected co-captains were a swivel-footed back and a hard-hitting guard brother combination, Ray and Don Henson. Other outstanding backs were Jerry Newark, Zane Frentress, Rubey, and Hartley. Allen Sufficool, Neil Long, Bob Coddington, and Delmar Carlson received high recognition for their line play.

Cross Country

Coach Raleigh Holt's long-winded cross-country squad climaxed its '48 season December 3 by placing second in the Southern California preliminaries won by Long Beach Jordan at Long Beach. Little more than a week earlier the harriers had finished second behind Compton at San Diego State College in the Coast Prep League meet.

A strong group of leather-lungers from Grossmont met with the Cards, October 29, in the Redbirds' campaign opener. The Redbirds dropped a close 25-30 decision. In a triangular meet with Grossmont and Santa Ana a week later, the Cardinals finished second with 41 digits compared to the 35 of first place Grossmont and Santa Ana's 46.

November 12, Hoover took third place in the Aztec Invitational, and Compton, the school that decisioned the Red and Whites in the Coast League championships, was fifth. Rival San Diego High fell by a lopsided 23-35 count to the Holtmen in the final Bird dual meet, November 19. The Southern California prelims and Coast League meet climaxed the puffer's action for the year.

Bob Gwazdacz and Mike Console were elected co-captains of the harriers. Three juniors, however, paced the cross-country runners all year. Don Bush, Phil Seiter, and Dick Stowers were the first three Hoover finishers in all but the Grossmont dual in which Console panted home ahead of Stowers. Bob Davidson and Charles Silvis, seniors; Milton Hatchell and Myron Edwards, juniors; and Victor Brown, a tiny mite sophomore, were the other lettermen on the Holt tutored crew.

Hoover	0	5	.000

Looking forward to next year and '51, Hoover's tennis team, the first since 1941, coached by Schurer Moe, hopes for better and brighter things. They have reason to be optimistic, for one junior, Mike Farrar, and six sophomores, Kenny Hoffert, Bob McCue, Joe Ballin, Bob Hartmann, Harvey Bender, and Al Davidson, will be returning to the courts next spring with vows to make a good record in 1950.

Only four men will be lost to the squad. Of these, three are graduating this summer and one in February, 1950. Billy Allanson, Bob Miller, and Dave Stanley are the '49 grads, while Art Haas is the mid-termer.

Redbird tennis fans are unable to bask in the glory of the past year's record, for no wins, one tie, and eleven losses were the results of the squad's work up until Annual press time. Six matches remained to be played, including one with St. Augustine, which furnished the Cards with a tie at their first meeting.

Coast Prep League play found the Cardinals the cellar dwellers when the Annual went to press, with little chance of climbing higher. Some kind of record may have been established, however, as Redbird netters failed to score a point, as a team, against league opposition.

Varsity basketball was climaxed with Coach Kenny Hale's Cardinals finishing fourth in the Coast Prep League. Out of the entire twenty-one game schedule, nine cagefests went into the books as Redbird triumphs, while twelve encounters ended with the Cards trailing. Had the Halemens won the seven games that they lost by three points or less, their campaign would have been much more impressive.

The one-two forward punch of Hoover's Tom O'Brien and Dean Davis accounted for most of the honors won by the Hoover quintet. O'Brien, playing his second and final year for Hockerville, dumped 218 digits through the webbing, was named to an All-Tourney team at Compton, and was elected co-captain along with Marv Hiatt, another senior playing his second and final year in varsity togs. Davis finished behind O'Brien in the point total department, contributing 178. The Breitbard Athletic Foundation placed the smooth-working junior on second-string of an All-Coast League aggregation. Davis' court companions named him the team's most valuable player.

Most improved player honors went to Nick Chrones and Ed Abbott, a pair of seniors who turned in commendable jobs both offensively and defensively. Bill Sheng, another senior, was a regular at a guard post most of the season. His hawk-eyed defensive work turned many threats by the opposition into quick field goals for the Red and Whites.

Other members of the Bird squad were Robbie Carpenter, Dick Hutchings, Fred Meis, Bob E. Miller, Jerry Kinnison, Ronnie La Police, and Bart Bullard, Manager. All were seniors.

Hoover's Jayvee and Bee contingents will form the bulk of next year's varsity. The J.V. group, tutored by Don Hankins, played in a tough City Recreation League, and the experience they gained should help to make next season's varsity hoopsters strong contenders for the C.P.L. title.

"B" Basketball

It is a wonder Coach Charlie Hampton finished the '48-'49 season as "B" basketball mentor without gray hair. His lightweight court performers scored only five points more than their opposition in League competition, yet managed to win ten contests on their fifteen game schedule.

Three engagements saw the Card "B's" even in points with their opposition at the end of the regular allotted time. Two of these overtime struggles ended in the Redbirds' favor, but in a third, Hoover finally succumbed in a second overtime period.

The Hooverites' best performance of the campaign was staged in the game against Compton. Passing well, driving in hard, and scoring two-pointers with surprising precision, the Hamptonites humbled Compton, 48 to 38.

Rival San Diego High gave the Redbirds two of their overtime tussles. In the first courtfest, the Diegans came from behind in the last minutes, and after playing the Cardinals to a standstill in the first extra canto, secured the winning margin. In the second meeting of these quintets, Hoover followed in San Diego's footsteps to the extent of overcoming a deficit late in the game. Only one overtime stanza, however, was needed to dispose of their opponents. Grossmont was the Hockerviller's other victim in an overtime.

Flashiest and most valuable player distinction went to Louis Moreno. Receiving recognition as the steadiest players all season were Gene Brown and Larry Mikovich. John Tuttle was chosen the best hustler for the season. Elected as team co-captains were Jerry Woods and Dee Dee Patton.

"C" and "D" Basketball

They were small compared to the size of their big brothers, the Varsity and Class B's, but they made up for it with all kinds of spirit. This, of course, refers to the Class C and D basketball squads.

Coached by Ken Eason, the tiniest of tiny mite Dees won all but three games on their schedule. To climax their season, the "D's" entered the Coronado Tournament and advanced to the semi-finals before being eliminated.

The Easonites' biggest thrill of the campaign occurred in a skirmish with San Diego High. Overcoming a deficit in the last three minutes of play, the Cardinal infinitesimals went on to dump their opponents by ten digits.

In the scoring department, Leonard Bloom was the most outstanding. Bloom maintained close to a fifteen point average per game. Dick Stagg, another leading player of the Dee quintet, was named team captain.

Hoover's Cees' won and lost record did not compare with that of the Dees. Not until the Coronado Tournament did the Class C's begin to roll. The "C's" moved all the way to the finals before suffering a loss. Roy Willbanks, captain of the Cees, paced the Redbird lighties in their drive to the finals.

Murray Mott was voted the most improved player of the "D's," while Bob Tippie was voted the most improved of the "C's."

Raleigh Holt

Hoover's varsity track and field contingent, coached by Raleigh Holt, wound up its season on the cinders by finishing fourth in the All-Coast Prep League meet. The Cardinal Bee tracksters brought up the rear in their division, and the Cees were headed only by Grossmont High School in their class.

Aces in the varsity races up to and including the quarter mile were Dick Woods, Gordon Kinney, and Joel Snyder. Outstanding in the "B" sprints were Sam Marino, Carl Anro, Stan Borden, Gene Wright, and Norman Rubey. Class C contestants Leonard Bloom, Michael Grindler, Don Grewe, and Bob Tippie proved most valuable in the dashes.

For the varsity distance races, Coach Holt placed his hopes on Don Bush, Dick Stowers, and Mike Console in the mile grind and on Bob Davidson and Milton Hatchell in the half-mile test. Class B 660 men were Don Hartley and Marvin Johnson. Phil Seiter puffed out the 1320 in fine style. The "C's" only distance race was the 660-yard run, at which Jim Hunt and Jack Baird excelled.

Hurdle races seemed to be the Redbirds' specialty. In the varsity high and low hurdle events, Malcomb Herbert ran well enough to set new meet records. In Bee competition, Jack Niesley set a new Hoover record in the high hurdles. Ray Henson turned in a commendable job at the low hurdles. Bloom and Bill Lockman paced the Cee hurdlers.

The field event coaching was done by Bob White. Hoover had three good high jumpers in Del Teter, Howard Rogers, and Bob Young. Julius Gwazdacz and Keith Campbell were White's mainstays for the "B" high jump, and Roy Willbanks and Hunt sparked the Cees.

The broad jump entrants in Hoover meets were Evan Wetherald, Hal Fear, and Sid Harris. Class B broad jumpers were Jim Robertson and Al Majomut. For the Cees, Marty Goldstein uncorked the best jumps.

Coach White's leading shotput men were Jack Adams, Jack Day, and Eddie Rodgers on the varsity, Ken Fawcett and Larry Mikovich in Bee, and Charles Clute and Grundler in Cee. Pole vaulting was done by Dave Kemp, Ronnie La Police, and John Anderson. Bee and Cee vaulters included Bill Heaton, Gail Thompson, Gary Dewar, and Dick Leonard.

Golf

Undefeated in match play, Hoover linksmen, coached by Jay Hershey, enjoyed a very successful season, and by virtue of this, earned themselves the San Diego City Schools championship.

With a group of links-wise sophomore and junior divoters competing for positions on the six-man team, plus two returning lettermen, Coach Hershey had a difficult time all year deciding who should play against the throng of opponents.

Everyone vying for the team shot in the seventies when on his game. Jack Tague, a long-hitting sophomore, and Neil Pond, another smooth-swinging soph, paced the linksters most of the season. The returning lettermen, Fred Stratman and Sid Harris, and other contenders for spots on the golf six, Don Rowcliffe, Ralph Guldahl, Dick Meyer, and Bob Gregovich, fought it out for the remaining positions on the Card sextet.

Victims of the Hersheymen included Chula Vista, Kearny, Point Loma, and San Diego High. Chula Vista and San Diego High threatened to mar the golfers' outstanding record, but the Hockervillers came through under pressure to keep their loss column unblemished.

With only Rowcliffe and Harris graduating, next year's links team should consist of another sharp-shooting group of shotmakers.

Swimming

Redbird swimming enthusiasts entered their second season this year when they reorganized under the direction of Coach Charlie Hampton.

Although small, and still in the process of becoming better organized, the team proved quite spunky, as shown by their early season activities.

At the Southern California Interscholastic Federation Invitational meet at El Segundo, Dick Heyl, a senior, placed second in both the 50 and 100-yard freestyle aquatic features.

Allan Louderback, also a senior, took third place in the 200-yard freestyle event. Bob Leamer and Jim Mitchell also went on the trip but were eliminated in early heats.

May 6 was the big day for the team, however, for on that date the mermen competed in the Coast Prep League meet. Five schools entered in the meet were Hoover, San Diego, John Muir, Compton, and Pasadena.

According to Coach Hampton, the swimming unit will be active again next year and hopes to line up more competition.

Wrestling

Finishing first in the San Diego and Imperial Counties Novice A.A.U. Wrestling Tournament highlighted the Cardinal grapplers' season. Thirteen other schools, including San Diego High and San Diego State College, competed. A student mentor from State College, George Anthony, coached the Redbird "grunt 'n groaners."

Hoover finished third in the San Diego City High School League, headed only by Kearny and San Diego. The inexperienced members of the Hoover mat squad entered the A.A.U. beginners tourney and finished third, which indicates that Hockerville has a bright mat future ahead.

In the S.C.I.F. finals, Hoover was fortunate in having a brawny heavy-weight, Bob Rinehart, who gained the title in his class. Barry Alford, a junior, placed fourth in the finals.

The S.C.I.F. sectional meet saw Rinehart and Alford win their respective weight divisions. Bernie Asner, a sophomore, grappled his way to the championship match before being conquered. Rinehart's work earned him a spot on the All-League team. Alford was elected captain of the wrestlers.

Working under Bill Matthie, a new coach at Hoover, who demonstrated plenty of "diamond know how," the Cardinal horsehiders engaged in the 1949 baseball wars had a 11-11 won and lost record as of April 26. Considering the lack of returning talent and the large number of juniors and sophomores on the squad, Coach Matthie was well pleased with the Redbirds' season record.

Behind the plate for Hockerville, a trio of topnotch backstops alternated.

Two juniors, Bob Petty and Ed Scott, handled the catching chores during the initial part of the season. Bill Loizeaux, a returning letterman, was out of action for a portion of the campaign with an ankle injury, but stepped into the catching gear for his share of backstopping in the latter part of the season.

Alternating on the mound for the Bird nine were Bill Atkisson, Dick Bartlett, Ralph Buckingham, letterman, and Bert Grigsby. Scheduled to return to the pitching staff are Buckingham and Grigsby.

Initial sack duties were handled by Tom O'Brien. The keystone tending job fell to two juniors, Jack MacKay and Dick Roberts. A letterman, Bob Byrum, and Nick Chrones handled the hot corner. Bob Johnson, a veteran, worked at shortstop to round out the Card infield.

In the outer pastures, Joe Duke, Jerry Newark, Charles Abbott, and Buckingham, juniors, and Don Bonatus, a sophomore, shared the fly hawking duties. Bonatus, Buckingham, and O'Brien led the Red and Whites at the plate, all hitting the horsehide at better than a .300 clip.

J. V. and Sophomore Baseball

With only two games remaining on their schedule, the Kenny Hale coached Jayvee horsehidiers had chalked up eleven wins against six losses at Annual press time. Coach Bob Kirchhoff's sophomore nine had accounted for six victories and dropped three encounters.

Wielding the most consistent bat for the Jayvees were Dick Hartley, Jim Jacobs, and Gene Neil. As a power hitter, Don Bowen proved the most hefty. Extra base hits were his specialty.

For the J.V. crew on the mound Van Jackson (3-0) and Art Bunge (2-0) boasted the most impressive records. Bob Carver (3-1) and Dave Meyers (2-4), a better pitcher than his record showed, were the Cards' other moundsmen.

A pair of outfielders, Elvey Knezek and Ken Strong, pitcher John Matson, and third baseman Charlie Smith led the sophs in hitting. Besides Matson, Kirchhoff had the services of two other pitchers, Jerry Woods and Salvador Yepiz.

Acknowledgment

We, the Annual Staff, wish to express our sincere gratitude and appreciation to the following people without whose aid and guidance this book could never have been published:

Miss Agnes Kokanour, Annual Adviser, who set deadline after deadline and spent untold hours worrying over each one. And who is above all others the one to whom we owe this book.

Miss Margaret Heaton, Literary Adviser, who patiently and uncomplainingly read and corrected our unorthodox copy.

Miss Ann Grogan, Art Adviser, who directed the art we are so proud of.

Mr. Serafino L. Giuliani, Senior Adviser, who received our budget without blinking an eye.

Mrs. Madeleine Hofmann, who lent us the Choir risers for our large organization pictures, and the crew who set them up for us.

All faculty sponsors of organizations who cooperated in assembling groups for pictures, identifying members, and checking write-ups, and all teachers who so graciously excused students from classes for pictures and Annual business.

The members of the office practice class, especially Erlyne Conn and Marion Hull, who gave up class periods to type and retype Annual copy and to run all the little errands we were too hurried or too harried to run.

Mr. Charles Watterson and the Sunset Engraving Company for their excellent reproductions of our photographs and drawings.

Mr. James Neyenesch, who deciphered our dummy, and Neyenesch Printers, who printed the book.

The Universal Cover Company, who made our padded covers perfection.

And last, but by no means least, Cecil Hamilton, photographer, who put his all into his pictures, including his coat and ties, and who, despite constant rain and interruptions, coaxed smiles from others without once losing his own.
